Important Changes for Management Committees of Community Buildings – Licensing

A press release was recently issued by Action with Communities in Rural England (ACRE):

“ACRE and the Rural Action Community Network welcomes the changes to the Licensing Act 2003 announced by the Department of Culture, Media and Sport that will take effect from today (29th July 2009). The Legislative Reform (Supervision of Alcohol Sales in Church and Village Halls) Order 2009 will allow volunteer committees managing community buildings to take joint responsibility for the sale of alcohol in their buildings instead of being required to appoint an individual as the Designated Premises Supervisor (DPS). Small communities whether rural or urban have found it very difficult to recruit and fund a volunteer DPS who was willing to take on the responsibility and required training. Management committees will need to ensure that the sale of alcohol is included in their Premises Licence and be able to demonstrate clearly to their local licensing authority how they operate and that there will be appropriate supervision of alcohol sales at different types of events.”

If your hall does currently not have the sale of alcohol included in your licence and you would like to review this in light of the above changes please contact Durham County Council's licensing department at Teesdale House, Barnard Castle on 01833 690000. There will be some fees to pay to amend your current licence.

Printer Available

The Highlights Rural Touring Scheme have kindly notified us that they have a printer/photocopier available that they no longer require due to an upgrade to a colour one. It is a Minolta Di200 black & white A3 and A4 with full service history and is in excellent working condition.

The printer is available for a small fee and would need to be collected from the Highlights office in Appleby, Cumbria.

If you are interested and would like to find out more please contact Helen Swaby at Highlights on 01768 353954 or email helen@highlightsnorth.co.uk

TVHC welcome two new halls

The Consortium welcomed two new member halls at their AGM in July – West Auckland Memorial Hall and the Lipscomb Hall in Cockfield. With the recent closures of Langleydale School Community Centre and Cockfield Community Centre the Consortium's membership remains at 33 halls.

We look forward to working with our new halls and details of them will appear soon on our website at www.teesdalehalls.co.uk where information about all our member halls as well as the services offered by Teesdale Village Halls Consortium can be found.

Sports Classes Available to Halls

There is funding available to run physical activities in your hall which will cover the hall hire and tutor costs. The funding will cover sports or physical activity sessions for all ages, for example football, cricket, basketball, adult exercise and aerobics classes, walks, and new age kurling. Other activities that contain an element of sport or physical activity can also be considered. There is no minimum number of participants required for the sessions and participants will have to pay a charge; the amount will depend on the particular activity.

If your hall is interested and you would like to find out more please contact George Richardson, Community Sports Network Officer for Active Teesdale on 01833 696346 or email george.richardson2@durham.gov.uk

Participatory Budgeting Event

Durham Rural Community Council would like to invite you to attend an event taking place at County Hall Durham on the 3rd September at 10.00am. The aim of the event is to give you an insight into the relatively new concept of Participatory Budgeting (PB) and to find out how you can make it work for your community.

During the morning there will be presentations from the national Participatory Budgeting Unit who will explain the development of PB, its features and benefits. There will also be a representative from Newcastle City Council explaining how they have been able to make PB work for them and their communities and finally, Gordon Elliott, Head of Partnerships and Community Engagement will give us his perspective on how he sees PB developing for the benefit of communities in County Durham.

Participatory Budgeting is the process by which local people have a say in how money is spent in their area. It generally involves the budgets of public sector organisations such as the local authority, health authority or police. Community groups are given the opportunity to 'pitch' for a share of a limited pot of money to deliver a worthwhile project in their area and then local people are given the authority to decide whether or not they are supported. It is a competitive process but relatively simple and one of the best aspects of the process is that the decision is immediate.

If you would like to find out more contact Lesley Millgate at Durham Rural Community Council on 01207 529621 to reserve a place or email lesley.millgate@durhamrcc.org.uk

HOT TIP! If your village hall car park is used by people other than those using the village hall, consider putting an honesty box into the car park for people to leave donations for their parking towards your village hall funds.

Flexible Families Programme

The North East Enterprise Agencies are currently delivering a programme called Flexible Families which has been funded through the European Regional Development Fund (ERDF) and is supported by One North East. It is a new type of support aimed at parents/carers of young children and parents-to-be who would like to explore opportunities for self-employment but have never before considered it as a viable option. The support offered will help them to understand any potential barriers they may face to becoming self-employed, and how they might overcome them. Obstacles might include the need to develop key skills, increase personal confidence or help in developing trading opportunities. However, in essence, the objective of this project is personal development. The parent or carer may have an existing hobby or skill or just some free time, which encouragement and support could transform into a business idea. Their role will include working on a one-to-one basis with the client, to help identify barriers, skills needs, and potential opportunities. The programme offers completely flexible support, so that the client can work around existing commitments, ultimately helping them to get over any skills barriers with as little effort as possible (e.g. literacy, numeracy, IT, confidence building). With their support, the client can begin to explore the prospect of earning extra money, whilst working around family or other responsibilities. If anyone is interested in the programme and would like to find out more please telephone Brenda on 01388 776688

Changes to Emergency Care for Adults and Children at Bishop Auckland General Hospital

Changes are planned to accident and emergency (A&E) and children's services at Bishop Auckland General Hospital. This is in line with Bishop Auckland's future role as a centre for planned care, with a 24 hour urgent care centre.

From 1 July until 1 October 2009:

- The urgent care service at Bishop Auckland Hospital will provide treatment 24 hours a day for minor illnesses and injuries
- Bishop Auckland General Hospital A&E will be available between 8.00am and 12.00 midnight only
- Emergency care for seriously ill children will be centralised at Darlington Memorial and University Hospital of North Durham for the whole of County Durham

From 1 October, A&E for all seriously ill patients will be at Darlington and Durham. The urgent care centre will continue to offer care to all other patients 24 hours a day.

This means that from 1 July:

- Adults who may be seriously ill should not be taken to Bishop Auckland General Hospital between midnight and 8.00am
- Children who may be seriously ill should not be taken to Bishop Auckland General Hospital for treatment at any time

Instead call 999 or take them to A&E at Darlington Memorial Hospital, University Hospital of North Durham or your other nearest A&E department.

NHS Health Trainer Service

"My name is Steve, I work as a Health Trainer based at Willington Health Centre. The role of the Health Trainer is to provide a friendly, accessible service for local people to enable them to live a healthier lifestyle. They can assist local residents with advice and support, and can signpost to specialist services if required. They will provide the tools to build confidence and encourage a client's to reach their personal goals around healthy lifestyles, eating, smoking cessation and increasing physical activity.

For some people Health Trainers can be the first step to improving their health. Health Trainers, such as myself, are drawn from local communities and trained to reach those who want to adopt healthier lifestyles, but who have not been able to engage with traditional services. Behaviours are a major cause of ill-health and premature death. By setting personal goals and learning strategies to achieve these targets, people can develop a greater sense of control and improve both their health and well-being.

Health Trainers meet with individuals to:-

- Boost clients' motivation to change;
- Teach skills to take control of their health and related behaviours;
- Help clients to focus on their achievements;
- Build confidence to support the changes that they want to make;
- Discuss how the client wants to improve their health;
- Provide information to help decide the most appropriate course of action;
- Help set personal goals that are unique to the individual's need;
- Help set an action plan to achieve personal goals.

Health Trainers have regular contact with their clients to review progress and provide ongoing support. The service aims to target people who are not sure about what they can do to improve their health or where to start, or lack the confidence to be referred directly to an existing service. Health Trainers can accompany clients to services if needed. My contact number is 01388 742579 or 0191 5692841'

Finding and Keeping Your Trustees

According to the Charity Commission latest newsletter effective trustee boards are more important now than ever; but they know that many charities struggle with recruiting and integrating new trustees. Charity Trustee Networks (CTN) has launched two initiatives to help:

Trusteefinder

This is an online bank of 6,000 trustee vacancies which can be searched to find vacancies anywhere in the UK. Charities and trustees can register for free on the website and post their own trustee vacancies which can then be searched by anyone looking for a trustee role themselves. To post a new vacancy go to www.trusteefinder.org.uk Other sites which offer volunteering services include REACH www.reach-online.org.uk and the national volunteering database www.do-it.org.uk

Developing Codes of Conduct

Virtually all boards encounter issues such as conflicts of interest, uncertainty about responsibilities or difficult one to one relationships. The commitment by a board to a code of conduct, however informal, can help to prevent these types of problems or tackle them effectively when they occur. CTN has produced Codes of Conduct for Trustees, a free to download practical resource to help trustees work well together, avoid problems on the board and provide tools to address them should they arise – without things getting personal. Codes of Conduct for Trustees includes sample codes of conduct, useful tools, signposting to other resources and case studies showing how other charities have used codes of conduct. It is available to download from www.trusteenet.org.uk/resources/codes-conduct-trustees-ctn-booklet

Free Toolkit to help Community Organisations

Hi there,

I'm writing to let you know about a new free resource to help your village hall. The project I work on has created the Brighter Futures Together toolkit for the North East region. Basically, it's got lots of simple factsheets about how to help your community become stronger and more sustainable. That means sustainability in its broadest sense, not just the green bits!

It can give you ideas about activities you might like to try in the community, such as health projects, transport, starting a community shop or supporting fair trade. The choice is yours! There's also advice sheets that could cut your costs (such as energy-saving) as well as more general ones on fundraising and communication.

The toolkit is primarily web-based, at www.brighterfuturestogether.co.uk, but there are also hardcopies available for distribution where required. I am conscious that for some of you, internet access can be problematic.

Therefore, if you would like a folder sent to you, please let Helen know, or contact me directly. If you have web access, do have a look around the website and get stuck in!

Finally, we're hoping to share examples of good work that community groups are doing across the region. If you have a sustainability project that you would like to inform others about, do let us know, either via the website or directly. I hope you find the toolkit useful, and do tell other people about it too!

Yours faithfully,

Ben Jewell
SCNEI Development Worker

Making Your Mobile Ex-Directory

From the middle of July all UK mobile phones will be on a directory which means that anyone will be able to access your number for the payment of a fee. It will cost £1.00 and use databases of numbers it claims are freely available for purchase and in the public domain. Anyone searching for a number can type the name and location of the person into the 118800 website. It claims to have some 15 million numbers in its database. If the company has the number you want, your contact details will be sent to them in a text message. With the phone version of the directory you call the number and again they will check whether they have the person's details on their database. If they do, they will call them up while you are still on the line and ask them whether they are prepared to have your call put through to them. In neither case is the mobile phone number given over to the person making the request. Both services cost £1.00.

If you do not wish to be on this list you must 'opt-out.' To remove your number from this directory database go to the webpage www.118800.co.uk and then select 'Ex-Directory.' You need your mobile phone with you as you will immediately be sent a text with a code you must then re-input to become ex-directory

Thank you to the Blue Gentian for this information
